Utah Consumer Health Information Initiative (UCHII)

This project created a partnership between the Eccles Health Sciences Library and Utah public libraries so that they can provide top quality consumer health information for residents statewide. An assessment was conducted to determine the level of health information provision and understanding in the state. Training was provided statewide for public librarians to understand health information, and to determine high-quality resources for patron. Community partnerships were identified and established to support community librarians providing health information in person or electronically for all Utah residents.
